IUS HUMANI'S* COPYRIGHT POLICIES

Authors that publish in this journal agree to the following terms:

1. Authors keep the copyright and guarantee the journal the right to be the first publisher of the document, which has to be licensed under the Creative Commons Attribution License (cfr. <http://creativecommons.org/licenses/by/4.0/>). This license allows others to share the work under the following terms: by giving the appropriate credit to the authorship and to the initial publication in this journal.
2. The authors know and accept that Ius Humani will give all documents the widest possible dissemination. This involves distributing its contents in the regular printed version, on the journal website, in various databases, and in scientific indexes.
3. Additional agreements for non-exclusive distribution of the document's version published in the journal can be set up separately by authors with an acknowledgment of its initial publication in this journal (for example, it can be placed in an institutional repository or it can be published in a book).
4. Authors are allowed and encouraged to disseminate their works electronically (for example, in institutional repositories or on your own website) prior and during the application submission process, because it can lead to productive exchanges, as well as earlier and more frequently citation of the published document (See The Effect of Open Access in <http://opcit.eprints.org/oacitation-biblio.html>).
